Fools boast, but wise men only ad-nit.

More people are pinched by poverty han by the police. Mathematicians come under the cap-tion of figureheads. It isn't what a man owes, but what he pays that jolts him. No man is so ignorant that you can't learn something from him. Every man knows a lot of fool things he would do if he had the money.

A young man can make any girl blush by telling her he is a mind reader. You'll never succeed as a wheelbar-row or lawn mower chauffeur unless you have push.

He stared at her in amazement.
"Thank you," he said, merely, and went out with his head down.
"What a terrible thing money is."
Malvina thought. "What an awful power it gives one! God help me to be merciful!"

That afternoon she sent anonymously a box of flowers to Marian Turner, and in it was a $100 bill.
Mark's wife died in the operation. "Thank God, I sent that box to her."
Malvina said to herself. "I've been glad ever since I did it. I've been glad on account of some other things, too. I'm sure the happiness in Mrs. Prine's face did me more good than all the money she could have paid me. I'm thankful

Malvina is happy now, and her husband is successful. And she doesn't dream that it was her love for Mark that thwarted her father and kept her heart tender through all the hard years
